

Sexual Health Snapshot

MARYLAND TEENS

50% of all new sexually transmitted infections (STIs) in the U.S. each year are in teens and young adults¹

9,838 cases of chlamydia
1,767 cases of gonorrhea
in Maryland teens²

Most STIs have no symptoms and without treatment can cause serious health problems

Maryland high school students who reported ever having sex³

Having an STI increases the risk of getting HIV

Maryland high school students who reported drinking alcohol or using drugs the last time they had sex³

Alcohol and drug use may impair decision-making about having sex, condom use and consent

57% of Maryland high school students reported using a condom the last time they had sex³

2,645 births to Maryland teens⁴

Talk to your doctor or county health department about STI testing and treatment

Teens: ages 15-19; Young Adults: ages 20-24

Data sources:

1. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), 2018
2. Maryland Department of Health, Center for STI Prevention, 2018
3. Maryland Department of Health, Youth Risk Behavior Survey, 2018
4. Maryland Department of Health, Vital Statistics Administration, 2018

To learn more, visit: <http://bit.ly/STIPrevention>

March 2020

